KEYNOTE SPEAKERS

Simon Woods, President and CEO of The League of American Orchestras

Simon Woods brings more than 30 years of experience working with orchestras, having held leadership roles with The Philadelphia Orchestra, Royal Scottish National Orchestra, Seattle Symphony, and Los Angeles Philharmonic, among others. He is deeply committed to equity, to the role of arts organizations in community, and to nurturing the next generation of arts leaders. Simon Woods was honored to become an American citizen in 2018.

Alan Jordan, President and CEO of the Hilton Head Symphony Orchestra

A 40-year orchestra professional, Alan Jordan has held leadership positions with symphonies in Melbourne, FL, New Hampshire, Vermont, Delaware, and currently, Hilton Head Island, SC. A New England Conservatory of Music graduate, Jordan has served in many capacities with the League of American Orchestras, including as a board member, and as a National Endowment for the Arts grants panelist.

Michelle Hamilton, CFRE, Managing Director, Carter

Michelle Hamilton's career has been focused on the arts, including the Houston Symphony, Dayton Philharmonic and Charlotte Symphony orchestras. Today Michelle shares her expertise with nonprofits nationwide as Managing Director of Carter, a global firm that believes in the power of philanthropy to change the world. Michelle is a member of the Symphony Guild of Charlotte and serves on the SOVA Board of Directors.
